“Chemical Engineer Combines Algorithm and Software to Make a Successful and Important Corporation”

Charles Cutler, President & CEO Cutler Technology Corporation

After graduating from Lamar University with a degree in Chemical Engineering, Charles Cutler went on to earn a Ph. D. from the University of Houston and begin his career at Shell Oil Co. There he conceived and implemented the concept of a matrix control (DMC) algorithm - which has saved the petrochemical industry millions of dollars. It was Charles' particular innovative ability, interpersonal skills, persistence and leadership that generated worldwide acceptance of DMC.
