Reinventing the Learning Process- Virtually

Dr. James Bower, PhD

Dr. James Bower, PhD is be our speaker for March 2011 and will speak on “Reinventing the Learning Process-Virtually”. Dr. Bower will discuss socratic marketing; telecommuting (1200 miles away); how to attract private and public sponsors, investors, and financing for an idea; the pursuit of patents and Intellectual Property protection; and upcoming app’s for the internet.

Dr. Bower is the founder, Chairman and CEO of Numedeon Inc. which in 1999 launched Whyville.net as a tween learning environment and one of the Internet’s first virtual worlds. Whyville.net currently has more than 7 million registered users who spend on average over 35 minutes on the site per login. Whyville has worked with a wide range of partners to influence and engage tweens including Dell, Scion (Toyota), The Getty Museum, the Field Museum, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Disney. Dr. Bower is also a computational neurobiologist at the Research Imaging Institute of the University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio (bower-lab.org) and has served on education and technology advisory committees for the National Academy of Sciences, the National Science Foundation, the Ford Foundation, and the National Institutes of Health.
